WHAT TO START SEEDS IN?

The presidents of the various chapters have been given catalogs from two seed houses with information and prices of their material for making the planting of seed and raising the plants easier and fungus proof. It is suggested that each chapter order for their interested members, thus reducing the cost.

If you are in need of material of this kind ask your chapter president to let you see the catalog. If you do not belong to a chapter drop a note to George Wright, 2318 Dover, St., Ft. Myers, Florida.

"THE THING"

Facts and Fancy from a hybridizer's notebook.

By Harry Goulding

Positively, at least in Central-South Florida, almost all cultivars of H. Rosa Sinensis hybrids will combine as male or female parents to produce seed under the right conditions. Persistance and chance are your allies.

Dominance is a character or quality transmitted to a hybrid from one of the parents, which rules to the apparent exclusion of any antagonistic trait, and in hibiscus apparently governs in both the male and female cross. An example is the heavy, long, curved stamen on most progeny of ROSS ESTEY.

100% Perlite, in full sun, under continuous daylight mist, discontinuing at night, is the best way to root cuttings. (A dandy mist propagation system can be assembled in five minutes at a cost of only $3.00. Ask the Hybridizing Secretary, Nat Shepard.)

...

Tip cuttings of all hibiscus cultivars make superior plants. Best cuttings for grafting stock come from
